Enormous attention has been paid to the power and precision of the new and improved passing mechanic for FIFA 22. Not only can players control their passing in unprecedented detail and through every possible pass route, but players also pick up the pace of their passing as they travel through the pitch, developing pace as they progress. This increases the precision and control you can apply to every pass. Perhaps one of the most powerful improvements introduced in FIFA 22 is the improved Off-the-Ball Physics. Players can be tackled, off-balance, carrying the ball and then, at the peak of their momentum, make the goalkeeper's life hell. Players also benefit from significantly improved ball control when attacking. Players no longer need to leave the space in order to use their skills. Players are able to use their speed and acceleration to work the ball past the opponent. When a player pushes off the ball, his or her velocity is reversed while the direction is always positive. This enables you to boost the ball away from an opponent, while you protect the ball by adjusting it away from an on-rushing opponent. The new Off-the-Ball Physics also affects the behavior of players, the pitch and goalposts when under intense pressure. Passing and dribbling will slide in precise, defined directions off the ball to make it easier for a player to dribble past the opponent. Players will move naturally to escape a defender, making dribbling a bit more realistic. FIFA 22 also introduces new visual effects that players can instantly see in-game. Highlights, touches and other actions are now rendered at an unprecedented level of accuracy. Players can see replays on-field, and also learn exactly what happens in a situation by observing the data shown. It is also possible to use the Share tool in-game to replay key actions, and then share them as high quality videos directly from the MatchDay screen. FIFA 22 introduces completely new rule-of-the-game scenarios. For example, with "Gravity" rules enabled, the goalkeeper can always catch a long throw-in. This gives goalkeepers more time to block the ball and chances to get back on their feet. In "Evacuation," if the ball is kicked over the end-line, teams can score from the penalty spot. The "Safety" rule is similar to the one in real football, where the goalkeeper has the right to keep
